NWT Chamber Announces Business Awards

The NWT Chamber of Commerce announced its Annual Business Person of the Year and Business of the Year Awards at the President's Dinner held April 19, 2010.

Warren McLeod (l) accepts Business of the Year Award from Chamber President Chuck Parker

Business Person of the Year, Warren McLeod joined FSC Architects and Engineers in 1997. In 2004, Warren was made a partner at FSC and was recently named Head of Civil Engineering. Warren is also the current President of the Yellowknife Chamber of Commerce and has become the organization's voice on issues such as the proposed geothermal project and proposed changes to the NWT Wildlife Act. A positive role model in the NWT, Warren is recognized for his ability to develop positive relationships with all stakeholders.

Trinity Helicopters, named as Business of the Year, was recognized for its success since its entry into the aviation market in 2009. Trinity Helicopters President Rob Carroll accepted the award on behalf of the company which - in two years - has tripled its fleet, established itself as a pan-territorial helicopter company with bases in Iqaluit, Cambridge Bay, Whitehorse and Yellowknife, is undertaking a significant hangar expansion in Yellowknife and recently announced its expansion into the Sahtu.
